One half of this site is owned by Peter France. Hertford is the Lucullus of his day. His rent-roll, on the death of the Dowager Maroness was said to be over £90,000 a year; and he was residuary legatee to the Duke of Queensbury, whose natural daughter he married, and thus clutched more than half a million sterling!

A curious circumstance is mentioned in the accounts from Hamburg. The captain of the Liverpool, while on her voyage from Bahia to Hamburg, amused himself with fishing, and succeeded in capturing a large shark. Upon cutting it open, the greater part of the body of a man was discovered in the belly of the fish. The account states that the captain had in his possession the head of the body at Hamburg.
